

SOUL LIGHT - Forty Two

Abundance – Part 2

Spirit's very Purpose is to express itself through the giving of itself.

This giving includes the Abundance of Material Flow.

Material flow includes – but is not limited to – money. It also includes such things as jobs, opportunities and many physical tools for effective, optimal living in this three dimensional world.

This week we will look at money.

Do you understand it? When someone in government says they'll spend another billion dollars to avert this or that catastrophe, do you understand what a billion anything actually means? Can you put it into perspective?

A billion seconds ago it was 1977.

A billion minutes ago Jesus had just died.

A billion hours ago our ancestors were still living in the Stone Age.

A billion days ago no-one walked upright on the face of the earth.

A billion equals a thousand million (in Australia and US); a million million in the UK.

(700 billion US dollars is estimated to be enough to fund total professional healthcare for every person on this planet for the next decade – with a little money left over!).

Money is one of many forms of abundance.

In many ways it is the least important form. This is because unlike most other abundances, its value is determined by user-agreement.

It has no intrinsic value of its own.

One day it can be worth a fortune; the next, nothing.

With no stable value, it is doubly regrettable that it is so poorly handled and managed by most people – causing many of us material instability and physical distress.

At the same time it is, ironically, more highly venerated by millions across the globe than any other aspect of life.

Its accumulation has become the safety net, the purpose, the end goal, the highest good and the greatest god of countless egoic souls.

Yet, money is simply a flow of energy from one person to another.

When we become one with the flow of life we draw ourselves toward it in direct relation to our need for it.

We attract ourselves to it.

We move easily and naturally toward those things that enhance our healing, wholeness and oneness – including money when this can be used as a tool for our spiritual expression and unfoldment.

Sometimes it seems to evade us. This is often because our higher good is benefited at that time by undergoing a period of withdrawal from the allure of wealth (especially if we have been greedily perceiving it from an egoic standpoint).

Its withdrawal gives us time to re-consider our values and visions.

At such times we should be grateful that we are for that moment relieved of greater responsibility toward this particular abundance and we should turn our attention toward counting our blessings in other areas of life.

As we move in tune with the Infinite and offer gratitude for all our other expressions of abundance we align ourselves with new and fresh opportunities to experience wealth's flow.

Often when we stop seeking, it will seek us out.....!

If you perceive yourself as lacking abundance of wealth (and such inadequacy is genuinely holding you back) try living as if you were wealthy. This doesn't mean spending up big – but giving liberally of anything and everything you have.

Truly wealthy people – regardless of their assets and bank accounts - give of themselves and their momentary bounty.

Paupers – whether they be billionaires or penniless - fear giving of themselves or their bounty.

Give freely – and then give thanks for everything the Universe gives back to you.

Do so constantly and continually.....and watch your abundances flow and grow!

This week I offer you this affirmation (and contemplation topic):

I AM ABUNDANCE.

I AM THE FLOW OF LIFE AND AM ATTRACTED TO COUNTLESS OPPORTUNITIES TO EXPRESS MY WEALTH.

Blessings!
